What About Public Charge?

When certain individuals (most likely applying through the family immigration pathway) apply for LPR (commonly known as green card) status, immigration officials assess several factors to determine whether the applicant is likely to become primarily dependent on the government for their subsistence -- and if so, the applicant could be denied the green card on public charge grounds. Enrollment in health coverage (such as Medicaid and Marketplace coverage) is NOT counted in the public charge test; the only counted health benefit in the public charge test is use of long term care in an institution paid for by Medicaid. For a longer list of "safe" benefits see this link. Green card holders when renewing their green card or when applying for citizenship are not subject to the public charge test. For a longer list of immigration statuses that are exempt from the public charge test see this link.
